VOL. II

PAW PAW HIGH SCHOOL, TUESDAY, MARCH 15, 1921.

NO. XIV

CHAPEL EXERCISES

Mr. Kaye gave an interesting account of the inauguration and his trip last Wednesday morning. He described Washington and the Capitol buildings and the various events of inauguration, the parade and the President's address. Mr. Kaye saw the inauguration from the front row, after which he was so situated that he took several snapshots of the ambassador and officials as their cars came to call for them. He observed the interesting fact that while all the American officials rode away in Packard sedans, British ambassadors in all their festive array, walked, and the Italian diplomats were called for in a Ford. Mr. Kaye met a friend, influential in Washington circles, who took him into the White House, and in the evening to the Charity Ball. Mr. Kaye's account made the inauguration seem more real and vivid, than the newspaper accounts and awoke a great desire in us to see them ourselves some time.

Mr. Kaye found the meetings in Atlantic City wonderfully inspirational and he received several helpful ideas from them. He said that Paw Paw must not merely hold it's own but must awaken to the wonderful educational opportunities confronting it.

An invitation has been received from the Northwestern University to attend a track meet to be held there, April first and second. Mr. Kaye has promised to take a relay team to the meet providing the boys will begin training and produce a team worth taking. How about it fellows? Don't you think a proposition like that is worth working for?

Mr. Kaye has scheduled two baseball games with Benton Harbor. The Benton Harbor team will play here April 15th and Paw Paw will play them a return game on June 3rd. The boys are going to work hard this spring toward winning the pennant and any other baseball trophies that can be won.

Miss Donaldson was absent a few days last week on account of the severe illness of her mother.

JAMES R. ANGELL, SON OF MICHIGAN PRES., HEAD OF YALE

Dr. James R. Angell, director of the Carnegie Foundation, and former acting president of the University of Chicago, has been elected president of Yale to succeed Dr. Arthur P. Hadley, who resigned thirteen months ago. Dr. Angell's experience with the Universities of Michigan and Chicago caused the corporation of trustees to make him the executive head of Yale.

Never before has the corporation gone outside of the University faculty for a president, while Yale, on the other hand, has given other universities so many executive heads that she has been called the "mother of presidents."

MUSICAL NOTES

Considering the bad weather, the Minstrel show that was given at Lawrence March 8 was a success.

A new plan has been arranged for in the band. Every member of the band has to transpose some selection for his horn, from piano music and play the piece, before the assembly, on one of the chapel exercise programs. This will give him practice in transposing and also in solo work.

REMEMBER WAY BACK WHEN—

Jack's flivver would go?
Johnny stayed home nights?
Paw Paw almost got a railroad?
Pete Holcomb went around alone?
Paw Paw placed in Field Meets?
James had a haircut?
Johnny wore short pants?

The halls of the Annex are being recalcimined a creamy buff which adds greatly to the appearance of the interior.

The seating situation in the assembly room is growing acute. A number of new pupils have entered recently and the enrollment is now greater than ever before. The attendance in the grades is also steadily increasing.

Mrs. Dann braved a drive over the worst roads in the country last Tuesday night, to attend a birthday party at the Haworth homestead.

NOVELTY FOUR QUARTETTE

The next number of the Lyceum Course will occur Tuesday evening, March March 15. It is expected that the number will be particularly interesting and enjoyable. The Novelty Four Quartette present a brisk and talented program that wins the approval of all. Everyone should take advantage of the opportunity for an evening of real enjoyment.

MINSTRELS AT LAWRENCE

The Band Concert and Minstrels journeyed to Lawrence last Tuesday night. The event had not been advertised very widely, and on account of this and the inclemency of the weather the attendance was not all that could have been desired. However a fair sum was realized. The program went off well and met the accustomed success.

SCHOOL BOARD BANQUET

The annual school board banquet, was held in the Domestic Science room last Wednesday evening. A splendid dinner was served, which reflects much credit upon the Domestic Science department. The members of the school board and wives and the teachers enjoyed a pleasant evening together.

SOCIAL NOTES

Forest Fisher entertained a company of friends and schoolmates at his home Sunday evening.

A number of the High School people were guests at the Maple City Club Thursday night.

Dorothy Mae Brennan entertained the members of the P. C. Q. club Friday evening.

Several members of the High School attended a C. E. Social at the Baptist church Wednesday evening.

Roberta Lyle entertained several friends at a taffy pull at her home Monday evening.

Margie—Milly has been filing her love letters.

Dottie—Why, were they as rough as that!

THE BEE AND THE STAMP

(From the University Daily Kansan)

More pertinent to high school students today than the moral tale of the fox and grapes is the contrast between the bee and the postage stamp.

The bee is the unreliable fellow, traveling from flower to flower, stealing the sweatness of each. The postage stamp, although a very prosaic object is of more practical value to man, because it sticks to one thing until it "gets there."

Among High School Students there are, figuratively, both bees and postage stamps. He changes readily because he believes himself to be mistaken as to the value of the course he had ast semester, or because he is lazy. Such students do little good either for themselves or the schools in which they are enrolled. They lower the standards of the other students and lengthen the time required to finish their education.

The postage stamp, on the other hand, is that unswerving student, whose interest glues him to his chosen work throughout his high school and generally, for some years thereafter. And in the activities of the high school and the larger citizenship of the nation these latter are the ones who make good.

All schools would profit much if the pesky bees would move on to more fertile fields and the "stamps" that come hereafter would show evidence of more "stick-to-itiveness."

JUNIOR NOTES

The G. O. P. Club has decided not to meet again until after the Junior Play.

By the actions of some of the Seniors we have come to the conclusion that they have not outgrown their infancy—yet.

Dorothy Mae received a little set back in Chemistry class the other day.

Mary Curtiss was absent from school Monday and Tuesday.

Hazel is entertaining a cold this week—ask Harold where she got it.

LOST—A crank for an Oakland, Monday, Feb. 28, between Kalamazoo and Paw Paw. Finder please return to Harold and receive reward.

Miss Donaldson: When was Lincoln shot?

Kenny—I don't remember.

We wonder why a few of the new arrivals couldn't be Juniors?

Who said the Junior class wasn't large enough to put on the play without the help of the Seniors?

The Juniors have commenced to read Burke's Conciliation.

Watch for the 17th and 18th. "Bashful Mr. Bobbs."

A student calendar of working days in school in this year for freshmen:

Mr. Castle has commenced his annual drive against the Seniors. He will be remembered as the author of the poem:

I'd like to be an angel
And with the angels sing,
But I would rather be a Senior
And never do a thing.

THE "CREATION" OF EXAMS

1 And the Prof. said: "Let there be sharks to delve in the briny deep and gather up knowledge and wisdom and to devour the midnight oil and to acquire dyspepsia.

2 And there were sharks and they did delve in the briny deep and they did acquire wisdom and dyspepsia.

3 And the evening and the morning were the first day.

4 And the Prof. said: "Let there be Digs and Grinds and Pales scattered (thinly) over the face of the earth."

5 And the morning and the evening were the second day.

6 And the student said: "Let there be cuts and bluffs." And there were huge cuts and enormous bluffs upon the face of the earth until the Prof. regretted the existence of the Grinds and Digs.

7 And the morning and the evening were the third day.

8 And the Bluffers and Cutters said: "Let there be ponies and horses to convey us up the steep bluffs and across the deep cuts."

9 And there were ponies and horses, and the Bluffers and Cutters made great stables for them that they might be an ever present help in time of trouble.

10 And the morning and the evening were the fourth day.

11 And the Prof. said: "Let there be Crams," and there were Crams.

12 And the morning and the evening of the fifth day.

13 And the Prof. said: "Let there be Exams," and there were Exams.

14 And the morning and the evening were the sixth day.

15 And the exams descended and the flunks came and beat upon those Bluffers and upon those Cutters, and fell, and great was the fall thereof.

16 And they were soon no more in the seats which had known them for their knowledge was built upon shifting horses and ponies.

St. Peter—And who are you?

Student—A student from P. P. H. S.

St. Peter—Did you take the Wappaw?

Student—Yes.

St. Peter—Did you pay for your subscription?

Student—No.

St. Peter—Well,— (But really we'll leave this to your imagination.)

PROBABLY LILAC d'FRANCE

He asked me if I'd kiss him.
 I kissed him once or twice;
 I know I hadn't ought to,
 But my dear, he smelled so nice.
 —Clipped

Fanny—Did you hear about the two girls who took a tramp through the Catskill's last summer?

Danny—Gee, I would like to have been the tramp.

Donald A—Johnnie, do you think I will ever grow any bigger?

John—Of course, why not?

Donald—I don't see how, my head seems to be in the way.

WHY DO GIRLS LIKE THE SNOW?

They can wear their galoshes.
 The snow covers the antipath.
 The new spring hat can be seen in the snow.

Jinks and Jenks met for the first time in years. After falling upon each other's necks and chorusing the usual "Howzzaboy's?" Jinks undertook to be polite and conversational.

"And how," he inquired with a show of interest, "is Mrs. Jenks standing the heat?"

Jenks regarded him suspiciously.

"How'd you know she was dead?" he demmanded.—Am. Legion Weekly.

The courtship of Dorothy Mae Averill and ———? is progressing rapidly.

Miss Donaldson—If you tell a lie you won't go to heaven.

Margaret R.—I don't care, I want to go along with you.

A number of Sophomores were seen in Lawrence last Tuesday night. The minstrel show, and all, you know.

The History Class enjoyed (?) a change in teachership the last two or three days, Blanche Cavanaugh filling the position as no one else can.

Several members of the Chemistry Class, who are not Juniors are having a several weeks' vacation due to the Junior Play.

Blanch Cavanaugh visited in Grand Rapids during the week end.

The fifth period English Class has begun studying the Tragedy of Macbeth from the English point of view.

"Pat and Mike" have become very popular in fifth period English short stories.
